Don't squeeze your poor neighbor on a deal, and then give the squeezings to the heathen for the purpose of keeping things straight with the Lord. In the heavenly ledger those donations go straight to your poor neighbor's credit.

The chaplain of the Senate began his prayer the other day with this quotation: "There is so much bad in the best of us, and so much good in the worst of us, that it hardly behooves any of us, to talk about the rest of us."

Snow fell here nearly all day Saturday, sufficient to cover the landscape and a little has fallen every night since. The temperature has been low since Saturday, the coldest being Monday morning, when 10 degrees above zero was recorded.

One of the prettiest customs in all the world prevails in Mexico. No matter what may be the station or wealth of the individual members of a parish, all are dressed alike when they attend church. Women may, and do, possess Parisian gowns, but they are not for vulgar display in the house of God. All women must dress for church in plain, black gowns, with black mantillas for the head. Thus do the priests of Mexico impress on their people that, notwithstanding earthly disparity, all are equal in the sight of God.—Traveler.

Lewie Burns, young son of Treasurer Burns, has been on the sick list since Monday.

One of the softest snaps of any in the county, is that of the telephone lineman. It's so much fun, a morning like this, to climb a forty-foot pole and sticking to the side juggle wires while the wind freezes the workman's breath in blocks of ice worth 80 cents.

Robert Boice, a promising young man of this city and a graduate of our Public Schools, died of consumption last Thursday evening at his home, aged nearly 22 years. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon from the Christian church, conducted by Rev. Thomas.

The remains of Pierre Gray, a son of the late Gov. I. P. Gray of Indiana, who died at his home in Indianapolis, were interred at Union City on Wednesday of last week. The deceased was a prominent attorney and was born at New Madison, this county, some fifty-four years ago.

The Fire Department was called to the Standard Oil Company's yards in Minatown, along the D. & U., a little before 11 o'clock Tuesday forenoon, where a serious fire had started from the explosion of a gasoline tank. The flames, however, were soon under control and a bad conflagration thus averted. The loss was about $200.

How dear to our heart is that big load of elm, that came to our door in the days long gone by. It's now that we miss it, because we don't get it, and think of that elm, with many a sigh. The big load of elm; that water-soaked elm; that brought many a swear from the editor's lips, but now we don't get it, and how we wish for it, as our office is cold and we're catching the grip.

The habeas corpus suit instituted by Mrs. Charlotte Greenwalt for the possession of her little niece, Lottie Gaskill, was heard by Judge Allread last Friday and he decided that the Common Pleas court had no jurisdiction in the matter, the case properly belonging in the Probate court, where the child's guardian was appointed some months ago and where an application has been filed asking for his removal as such guardian.

While the Fire Department boys were out on horseback Tuesday forenoon, giving them their daily exercise, the one George Hathaway was riding slipped and fell at the D. & U. crossing on East Main street, throwing Mr. Hathaway over its head onto the paved street, the horses running away and were caught on East Third street. Mr. Hathaway had his right shoulder injured, but just as they got back to headquarters with the horses the alarm was turned in for the Standard Oil fire and notwithstanding his injured shoulder, which pained him considerably, he mounted the hose reel and drove to the scene of the fire. His shoulder still giving him great pain, he consulted a physician in the afternoon who found a fracture of a part of the shoulder blade. Since when he has been off duty and carries the arm in a sling. It was a narrow escape from what might have been a much more serious accident.

The American Boy for December. A two-color drawing of Santa Claus adorns the front cover of the December American Boy. The stories and articles in this number will delight not only the boys but their elders as well. The fascinating story of Jimmy Jones—Pirate is continued for two chapters, as is also That Dillingham Boy, by Oliver Optic. J. T. Trowbridge's serial, The Boy and The Beast, increases in interest, and Off the Reservation, by Edward S. Ellis, is brought to a conclusion. Among the shorter stories, Christmas, of course, takes first place. The regular departments are filled with matter both timely and interesting. In addition there are 57 illustrations. $1.00 a year. The Sprague Publishing Co., Detroit, Mich.

THE PROGRESS,
Greenville, O.

A Yawn Acts as a Tonic to the Whole System.

According to current idea, yawning in good society is an improper sign of weariness; according to the teachings of physiology, it is a long-drawn, forcible inspiration, followed by a shorter respiration; according to Dr. Naegeli, the great European physician, it is one of nature's many remedies, the proper application of which depends upon good judgment.

In yawning not only the muscles which move the lower jaw are used, but also the breathing muscles of the chest, and he who yawns in the proper way also raises and extends the arms. In the deepest inspiration the chest remains extended for a short time, the eyes are almost or entirely closed, the ears somewhat raised, the nostrils dilated. Inside the mouth the tongue round and arched, the palate stiffly stretched, and the uvula is raised, almost entirely closing the space between the nose and throat. At the beginning of the inspiration, cracking noise is heard in the ears, a proof that the duct leading to the hearing also succumbs to this stretching.

If the yawning has reached the deepest point, it will require from one to one and a half seconds for it to become noticeable to the hearing. To observe this, let one place himself at a sufficient distance from a clock, so that its ticking will not be easily heard, and yawn deeply. During this deep breathing the sound of the clock is not perceptible to the most careful listening. All this simply goes to show that yawning sets a number of muscles to work, and particularly those which are not subject to the will.

Although a person yawning does not present a very agreeable appearance, a yawn is very agreeable to the person yawning, for the stretching of muscles causes a feeling of comfort. It acts like massage, and is most natural gymnastics of the lungs imaginable. Dr. Naegeli, therefore, advises people not to concern themselves with so-called decency, but every morning and evening and as often as possible to exercise the lungs and all the muscles of respiration by yawning and stretching, as many chronic lung troubles may thus be prevented.

He orders the patient troubled with too much wax in the ears, accompanied with pain, to yawn often and deeply. He, also, in cases of nasal catarrh, inflammation of the palate, sore throat and ear ache, orders the patient, as often as possible during each day, to yawn from six to ten times successively, and immediately after to swallow. The result will be surprising. If one looks upon yawning as a natural massage for certain organs, he will reach a satisfactory explanation of its curative properties.

Grim Winter has made its debut, and from indications it has the appearance of a permanent fixture.

From the manner in which the nimrods are looking after the bunnies the supply will be largely reduced.

Our J. O. A. M. attended divine service yesterday in a body at the M. E. church. Come again! A. W. Fair and wife, and H. F. Dershem and wife of the city spent Thanksgiving with friends in this place.

Rev. C. Fulkerson preached the Thanksgiving sermon in our Presbyterian church to a fairly large audience, showing that there is abundant reason for thankfulness. At the close of the service the Reverend took the train to go to Huntsville to preach the funeral of one of his former parishioners, returning home on Friday night.

About three inches of snow fell Saturday night, since which we have had a low temperature.

Considerable of corn is still unhusked and from appearances some may stay on the fields all winter. Thus it ever is, some will be late in gathering their crops. Guess there have been too many irons in the fire. Everything cannot be compassed by one man.

Oysters came one day last week and with them P. B. Moul, who, on reaching the ground from the dray upon which he was riding, fell upon his left arm and broke one of the bones between the wrist and elbow, and dislocated the other. This was an unlucky ride for him. If his only loss was the oysters, but the breaking of the arms is a sad loss.

Mrs. P. B. Miller returned home today from Fremont, where she has been visiting her daughter's family for a couple weeks.

Guess it is about time we should write letters to Santa Claus letting him know what we want if we expect any of his favors. The kids will be wanting to provide themselves with a pair of extra stockings to hang up to catch Santa's gifts.

Mr. E. W. Goodloe, of 107 St. Louis St., Dallas, Tex., says: "In the past year I have become acquainted with Dr. King's New Life Pills, and no laxative I ever before tried so effectually disposes of malaria and biliousness. They don't grind nor gripe. 25c at Wm. Kipp's Sons' drug store."

MONEY WITH SHEEP.

Crops of Plump, Sound Lambs That Bring Long Prices.

This is how we have made the most money with sheep on Woodland Farm: The ewes have been selected for their milking properties and have been bred early to good mutton rams of the short legged, early maturing type. They have had the run of the pasture all winter and a good warm shed for lambing in May and June. They have been watched, so that when their lambs came, if it happened to be cold, they have been given attention. Small pens have been provided them in which lamb and mother might be placed for a day or two while they have been getting acquainted with each other, especially if we happened to be busy. Their mothers have been well fed and not overfed. They have been fed on the right kind of food. That means something cheap and home raised, and full of milk. That means alfalfa hay, of course. Well, these ewes, eating alfalfa hay, with a very little grain, are full of milk, and the lambs thrive from the start. The surplus of milk is taken away by hand right at first, so that they will not suffer from engorgement.

Starting the Lambs.
Soon they are plump, playful little rascals and wishing something to nibble with their own teeth. Then they are inducted into their own special apartment, where, right close to their mothers, they find troughs filled with grain—with oats and corn and clean, fresh bran, and with little racks of fresh alfalfa or red clover hay. These troughs are cleaned out every day and the surplus is given to the mothers. Thus they thrive like weeds until grass comes in the spring. When grass first comes they are kept shut away from it until after it gets strong and sweet. Then they are turned out and the grain is fed out of doors. Sometimes we have made the fattest lambs on grass, though, by turning them out on it as we would to the pigs. Of course, we have to fence a corner where the lambs can get the grain and the ewes cannot. We like to put out rollers in the creeps, so that the lambs may squeeze through and not hurt themselves, and pretty soon the shorn ewes are nearly as small as their lambs.

Selling the Lambs.
Managed in this way, we have sold our crop of lambs in three lots. One in April, and they averaged eighty pounds and brought a long price; the younger ones going again in May, and weighed above eighty pounds, and the very latest and the culls went in June, and they also averaged above eighty pounds and also brought a good price.—W. E. Wing in Farm and Fireside.

Pure and Strong

It is pure, because it is the Singapore Black Pepper. We say it's strong because we grind it from the whole grain. It's ground just right for butchering. The price is right. If you get a pound or two of this good pepper of ours no doubt you will be well pleased.

EXAMINATIONS FREE TO ALL.

Whenever it is known that Dr. Kutchin is stopping at a place, many consult him, and it is not to be wondered at when it is remembered that in diagnosing a disease he describes the different diseases better than the sick can themselves. It is a wonderful gift for anyone to possess, and Dr. Kutchin's diagnostic powers have created wonder.

He adopted the following plan, which is peculiar to the large hospitals, and is not and never has been the practice of country doctors, viz: he carefully notes the symptoms of the patient and ascertains the condition of the internal organs, all of which he carefully records in his register for future reference. In this way he ascertains the true nature of the disease and its cause. When sick people consult him, he readily tells them whether he can cure or help them, or whether they are beyond hope.

HIS IMPROVED METHODS OF TREATMENT

Patients can consult him or communicate with him as often as they choose, during the whole time required for the cure, without regard to success or satisfaction as though they were living next door to each other.

LATEST DISCOVERIES AND IMPROVEMENTS.

There are many diseases which physicians in common practice do not usually treat, and are therefore seldom prepared with necessary and costly outfit to examine correctly, or treat with success. Such cases, therefore, would do well to call on Kutchin to learn their true condition, and whether the doors of Hope are yet open, or forever closed against them.
